CDC Office and Location: A research opportunity is currently available with the Division of HIV Prevention (DHP), in the HIV Prevention Branch (HPB), within the National Center for HIV/AIDS, Viral Hepatitis, STD, and TB Prevention (NCHHSTP), at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) in Atlanta, Georgia.

Research Project: During this project, the participant will be collaborating with the National Partnership Team and developing, implementing and disseminating HIV prevention social marketing campaigns within the Let's Stop HIV Together (Together) portfolio. The participant will be responsible for the recruitment, retention, and development of strategic partnerships to create long-lasting and mutually beneficial relationships.

Under the guidance of a mentor, the participant will be trained and involved in the following activities:

- 1) Participate in social marketing strategic plans and meeting the goals and objectives for campaigns
- 2) Contribute to efforts in partnership development and mobilization strategies and tactics as part of campaign dissemination and implementation
- 3) Participate in social media efforts to further reach and impact campaign effort dissemination
- 4) Attend relevant meetings both internal and external

Learning Objectives: The objective of this project is to provide the participants with an educational experience in developing and disseminating social marketing campaigns and health communication messages to the American public. In addition, the participant will strengthen essential skills related to leveraging partnership synergy including, but not limited to, interpersonal and relationship skills, written and oral communication and presentation skills, and experience with relationship management software/CRM.
