Description Applications will be reviewed on a rolling-basis.

CDC Office and Location: A fellowship opportunity is available in the Monitoring, Assessment and Evaluation Unit of the Evaluation, Policy, Innovations and Curriculum Team in the Workforce Institute and Development Branch/Division of Global Health Protection/Center for Global Health/U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) located in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is one of the major operation components of the Department of Health and Human Services. CDC works to protect America from health, safety and security threats, both foreign and in the U.S. Whether diseases start at home or abroad, are chronic or acute, curable or preventable, human error or deliberate attack, CDC fights disease and supports communities and citizens to do the same.

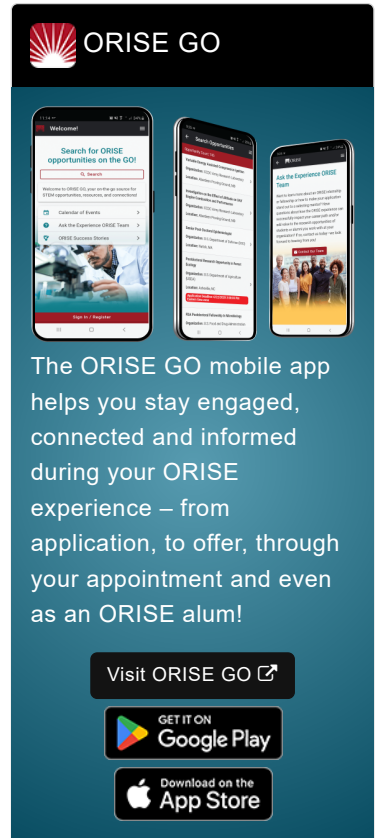

Research Project: The participant will learn about CDC's global health capacity building programs by collecting and analyzing information about the impact that implementation of Field and Epidemiology Training Programs (FETP) has on the public health work of graduates specifically and on the public health system in general. The participant will focus special attention to FETP implementation in non-English-speaking countries. The fellow would participate in branch, team and work groups for monitoring and evaluation FETP.

S/he would assist in:

- Updating of FETP quarterly data requests and annual reports;
- Data entry as requested by the Monitoring, Assessment and Evaluation unit;
- Updating of the "historic database" that feeds the FETP Info tool; and
