The Indian Health Service (IHS) is an agency within the Department of Health and Human Services that is responsible for providing federal health services to American Indian and Alaska Native people. The Division of Sanitation Facilities Construction (DSFC) with IHS administers a nationwide Sanitation Facilities Construction (SFC) program that is responsible for the delivery of environmental engineering services and sanitation facilities to American Indians and Alaska Native people.

Project: Want to have a positive impact on public health while collaborating in culturally and geographically diverse environments? IHS DSFC is offering a summer internship for undergraduate and graduate students studying engineering, engineering technology, environmental health or science, or a related scientific field. The objective of this internship is to collaborate with IHS DSFC engineers on projects that serve American Indian homes with drinking water, wastewater, and solid waste disposal facilities funded by the Bipartisan Infrastructure Law (BIL)/Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act (IIJA). An interactive dashboard of current IHS DSFC BIL/IIJA projects can be found here: <https://dsfc-ihs-gis.hub.arcgis.com/>.

Learning Objectives: Under the guidance of a mentor, you will gain hands-on experience to support your academic and professional goals. You
