Description The U.S. Department of Energy's (DOE) Mickey Leland Energy Fellowship (MLEF) Program is a 10-week summer research internship for undergraduate and master's students in STEM majors. Participants complete a cutting-edge research project at one of the Department's National Laboratories or DOE Headquarters in support of DOE's Hydrocarbons and Geothermal Energy Office (HGEO) mission of unleashing the full potential of America's hydrocarbon and geothermal resources to provide affordable, reliable, and secure energy. At the end of the program, participants present their research findings at the MLEF Technical Forum.

As an MLEF participant, you will train under the mentorship of scientists, engineers, and staff while completing a mission-focused research project. During the 10-week appointment, you will receive a bi-weekly stipend, and may be eligible for housing and travel assistance.

The mission of the MLEF program is to strengthen the pipeline of future STEM professionals and has provided mentored opportunities for over 1,000 students from across the nation for future careers in the STEM workforce. All eligible candidates are encouraged to apply.
